The same price as a traditional system

Home automation is still considered expensive. Did you know that you pay nearly the same price for a Velbus® system as you can for a classic installation?

In the long term, it is cheaper than a traditional installation because a home automation system offers you multiple possibilities to save money during the life of your home.

Save on energy

Once configured, the Velbus® system allows you to save on energy. The lighting and heating switch off automatically and the 'all off' button can switch off all devices. The newest Velbus® developments will even notify you via a colour change at the light switch as soon as your energy usage is excessive. Allowing you to save money on your bills.

Only pay for what you are installing

Velbus® is an ever-expandable modular system. The basic package is an already complete system at a bargain price. Compared to other home automation systems, Velbus® does not feature an expensive central unit. When you decide to expand your installation, you will only pay for the necessary extra modules.

Give your house added value

Thanks to the Velbus® system you will recoup your investment simply by having better control.

Other benefits

- A good professional system can be installed by any competent tradesperson, with the right training.
- On-going support with Velbus is vastly better than the competition.
- Who else offers a 10 year warranty?
